Hockey Meeting Tonite.

A meeting to organize for hockey this winter will be held tonight (Thursday) at the C.P.R. depot.

It is some years since Didsbury had a regularly organized hockey club, but there are lots of young players around who could be developed, and an experienced hockey player has offered his services as coach. There is no reason why a good club could not be developed.

While there is no ice at present, the boys should get together and talk things over. If you are at all interested in the sport attend this meeting.

Innisfail Oldtimer Passes Away

G. W. West, pioneer businessman of Innisfail, passed away early Sunday morning. Born in 1862 at York, P.E.I., he came to Innisfail in 1891 and opened the first general store in that town. He was a prominent Conservative and took a very active part in politics as well as in municipal affairs.

Herman Trelle Again Wins Championship

Herman Trelle of Wembley, Alberta, has added his fifth world's championship in wheat and his third in oats to his long list of successes achieved at the Chicago International Grain and Hay Show.

Heading a legion of Canadian farmers to championships and a rainbow of ribbons, Trelle won the oats championship Saturday with his "Victory" variety. He added the wheat crown Sunday with a "Reward" sample, for his second double "kingship" in eleven years. He set a record in 1926 for the Chicago Exposition by winning both awards in wheat and oats.

The double win, hitherto never accomplished by any other exhibitor, brings Trelle's list of grand championships to 16. Previously he had won with his peas, beans, flax, rye and timothy. The wheat championship was the 22nd won by a Canadian in 26 years.

Trelle's "Reward," a hard, red, spring variety wheat, originated by the Dominion government's experimental farm, weighed 66.3 pounds to the bushel.

Pretty Shower.

A pretty shower was held at the home of Mrs. W. Summers last Wednesday afternoon in honor of Miss Freda Smith, whose marriage with Mr. Norval Honey took place yesterday evening. The hostesses were Mrs. W. Summers and Mrs. E. Landeen and daughters.

The room was decorated in pink and white, having a pretty arch at one end over the buffet and centred with a white wedding bell.

The afternoon was spent playing contests, and recitations from Misses Hazel Ray and Beatrice Landeen were enjoyed by all present. A dainty lunch, including a bride's cake decorated in pink and white, with a miniature bride and groom under an arch of roses and green leaves, was served by the hostesses.

Miss Smith was presented with a letter of good wishes and was sent on a treasure hunt to gather the gifts, after which, having opened all the parcels, the bride-to-be thanked the ladies for all the beautiful things she had received.

Lectures On Diversified Farming

Roy E. Smith, of the I.H.C. Demonstration Farms, spoke on "Diversified Farming" to an audience of about 75 farmers at Henry Goehring's warehouse on Monday evening.

Mr. Smith dealt with the various phases of farming, such as crop rotation, weed control, and the growing of alfalfa and sweet clover. He also had a fund of information on the feeding of cattle and hogs.

The lecture was illustrated by moving pictures, and entertaining films were also shown.

E. J. Poole, M.P. Speaks on Current Problems.

E. J. Poole, M.P. for the Red Deer Constituency, was the speaker at a well attended meeting under the auspices of the Social Credit Zone Council on Friday evening.

This was Mr. Poole's first appearance on the platform here since his election last fall. He dealt mainly with the question of unemployment, foreign trade, and the Loan Council.

He criticized the Dominion government for their attitude towards the unemployment question and said that they were following too closely the lines of the Bennett government, which had proved to be a failure.

With regard to foreign trade, he pointed out that every country was trying to sell its surplus goods and buy as little as possible. The remedy he suggested was to develop the home trade, and that the Social Credit policies were a means to this end.

He defended the Provincial government in not agreeing to the Loan Council suggested by the Dominion government, and claimed that the conditions of the loan council had never been disclosed, and to have subscribed to the agreement would have been like making a purchase without knowing what one were buying.

He spoke of the Prosperity Certificates and quoted the Guernsey Islands and a province in Austria as places where similar scrip had been successfully used.

Homework --- How Much?

The present trend towards the reduction and perhaps ultimately the elimination of departmental, or external examinations for students in public and high schools is a step in the right direction, if for no other reason than that it should result as its corollary, in the reduction in the amount of homework demanded of pupils and especially those in their early 'teens.

Reports on the subject presented at the recent annual convention of the Canadian Education Association in Regina by a committee set up to study the subject of examinations in schools showed that the three prairie provinces, in confining departmental examinations to grade 11 and 12 students, that is, in the last two years of high school, are in the van of the movement to curtail the evils resulting from the rigidity which such a system necessarily entails.

It is not difficult to divine that the curtailment of the external examination system will result in more moderate assignment of homework in the public schools and at least in the first two grades in high school. It has already done so to some extent, but even yet there is good reason to believe that in very many classrooms, both rural and urban, too much is expected from children after school hours.

And this is particularly the case where children in the last two grades of public school and the first two grades of high school are involved. Children of these ages have reached a critical, physical formative period and during these years are laying a health foundation which will serve them good or ill in adult years. During this adolescent period, while mental development must not, of course, be neglected, physical development should not be cramped by eliminating much needed opportunities for recreation and health-giving physical activity.

With the incentive of the teacher to pile up homework for the students removed by the abolition of departmental examinations in the particular grades referred to, there is no longer any reason why children should be overburdened, to the possible detriment of health.

This was recognized by the school medical officer of the London (England) County Council in 1929 when he wrote in his report:

"It is clear that school authorities who take it upon themselves to set work which is not done under their immediate supervision take upon themselves a very heavy responsibility. It is their duty to consider the result not merely upon scholastic advancement but upon health and physique in every individual case, and in every individual case it is their duty to ensure that in every 24 hours, there is not only time for work, for meals, for physical exercise and for sufficient sleep, but also healthful relaxation and recreation."

In a handbook for one-teacher elementary schools the State Department of Public Instruction of Pennsylvania decrees:

"In primary grades home study should not be necessary. After the child has acquired the art of reading he should be permitted his own choice to take books home and return them as he chooses to do. If any home study is assigned in the intermediate grades it ought to be very limited. It should deal with such informational subjects as history and geography, and the pupil should not be held responsible the next day for having done a definite amount of work. He should be urged to read in these branches."

Discussing the same subject in a recent issue of Hygeia, under the caption, "Homework—The Big, Bad Wolf Of Education", J. F. Rogers made the following suggestions:

"Only work that can be done without help of parents should be assigned; home study should be made a privilege; it should not be too difficult; assignments should be made according to capacity and individual needs and for variety in subsequent class work; . . . home reading should be encouraged; homework should never be assigned as a punishment.

"In brief one may expect and must expect either injury to health or the exhibition of self-protective traits if the homework is either excessive or unsuitable, and there goes along with these results a waste of time which might be spent more educationally."

New Helicopter 'Plane

B.C. Man Claims Test Of Latest Model Is Success

A new type of helicopter flying machine is undergoing final tests by its inventor, John Hess, at New Westminster, B.C. The inventor claims it is the first successful helicopter for all practical purposes; that it can be lifted and lowered vertically in the air.

During the past 15 years Mr. Hess has studied aeroplanes and done a great deal of building and experimenting. He stated tests of his latest aeroplane had been successful, and that the machine could be kept in the air as long as he wished.

The aeroplane weighs a ton and is powered with a 210 horsepower motor. There are two propellers, one in front and the other at the rear, revolving on vertical shafts.

Each propeller has four blades and is shaped like an umbrella. The forward shaft may be thrown into a horizontal position to drive the aeroplane forward once it is in the air.

The secrets of the machine are well guarded. It is the third helicopter made by Mr. Hess. The first was a model and later he experimented with a 100 horsepower motor-driven machine.

Queer Broadcast Reception

Alberta Folks Hear Musical Program Without Receiving Sets

Mysterious music that "came out of a clear sky" baffled four road workers near Dodds, Alta., about 40 miles southeast of Edmonton. They said it was a radio program from Edmonton but there were no receiving sets "for five miles around" where they were working.

Startled by the music, A. J. Thorsley, R. Gjerde, H. Vergette and R. Flotree thought there might be an automobile in the vicinity but search revealed nothing.

They proceeded to a farm house more than a mile distant where they found Mrs. G. Sanstrom who claimed she had also heard the music but had feared to mention it, thinking people might wonder about her sanity.

As the workers were making further "investigations," the music ceased as suddenly as it had started, they reported. The music had continued as they walked toward the distant farm home.

The program from nowhere eclipsed the story of the Lindsay, Ont., farmer who heard melodies from his stove, and other reports of tunes coming from kitchen sinks.

SHE DREADED GOING UPSTAIRS

Woman's Fear of Rheumatic Pains

One of the many troubles that afflict rheumatic sufferers is the difficulty of getting up and down stairs. Such was the case with this woman, before she started taking Kruschen, but now she finds it no trouble. Read what she says:—

"I have been taking Kruschen now for over 12 months, a half-teaspoonful in hot water first thing in the morning, and I feel a new woman. I had very painful rheumatism in my knees and back and also my head was getting very bad. I used to dread walking upstairs, now I am very thankful to say it is no trouble at all and I scarcely have any pains. I feel better in health than I have done for years."—(Mrs.) G.M.

Two of the ingredients of Kruschen Salts are notable for their work in dissolving uric acid. Other ingredients of Kruschen assist Nature to expel the dissolved acid from the system.

Railways Aid Development

The greatest single factor in the development, not only of Vancouver but of the whole of Canada, had been the Canadian railway system, N. B. Walton, general superintendent of transportation, Canadian National Railways, western region said. He addressed the transportation and customs bureau of the Vancouver board of trade at a meeting commemorating the 100th anniversary of steam railway transportation in Canada.

More Planes For France

Decide To Add 1,500 More Machines To Defence Units

France will add 1,500 planes to her defence units under plans approved by the cabinet and air ministry, it was announced at Paris. The additional planes will raise France's strength in the air to 4,000 of the most modern ships.

The personnel, the air ministry announced, will be raised to 50,000 by the immediate addition of 10,000 men and 1,000 officers chosen from the present non-commissioned officers of the air, army and navy corps as well as air corps reserve officers.

A Cheerful Note

The Lethbridge Herald says the spectre of southern prairie cattle dying by thousands this winter is vanishing. A lot of our cattle have gone to markets east, west and south, some for immediate slaughter and the rest for feeding. The open fall has served to allow those still on hand to find their own living. It would appear that we are going to come out of the livestock situation better than we thought.

World's Largest Telescope Being Built In California Will See Billion Light Years

Plans for California's 200-inch telescope, which will make this world's largest "eyepiece", a structure resembling three five-story buildings fitted together like sticks crossed to a kite, have been announced in New York.

It was announced also the astronomers who "ride" this telescope will have a flying field on top of their observatory mountain in California so they can fly to work.

The plans were described at a meeting of the American Institute by Captain C. S. McDowell, U.S.N., loaned by the navy to be supervising engineer of the erection of the $6,000,000 telescope.

The 200-inch "eye," huge glass mirror which the telescope will carry, is already at the California Institute of Technology at Pasadena being ground. It should be finished in 1940, Captain McDowell said.

But the unique, new structure which will form the body of the telescope is expected to be fabricated by next July. The giant is one of the simplest pieces of astronomical engineering ever planned. It is in three main parts—a tube, a tuning-fork-shaped yoke and a horseshoe. The tube, which is the barrel of the telescope, is to be five storeys high, by 22 feet in diameter, a steel framework with no covering.

The fork is a steel skeleton. To support the higher end of the fork there will be a new structure in astronomy, a horseshoe of steel, nearly five storeys high. The top, open end of this horseshoe will be bolted to the elevated end of the tuning fork.

The result will be a telescope which can be rotated in any direction and pointed in any direction in the sky.

This great mass—580 tons—will float on oil. The oil will be under a pressure of 280 pounds to the square inch. It will be a thin film distributed over two supporting spaces or bearings, each with an area of 25 square feet.

This telescope, Capt. McDowell said, will see 1,000,000,000 light years out into space, more than twice the distance now plumbed.

An astronomer will be able to step out of his observatory on top of Mt. Palomar in California and into a plane on flying field alongside the telescope to carry his information to the laboratories which have been erected 90 miles away at Pasadena.

A New College Course

University Of Ottawa Starts School Of Political Science

A school of political science to accommodate both regular and occasional students has been opened by the University of Ottawa. Lectures will be given in the evening.

In announcing the new school, the university said: "The purpose of the school of political science is essentially a practical one. It is to prepare candidates for important Canadian administrative positions, for example in the departments of external affairs, trade and commerce and finance.

"Moreover, the object of the school is to offer, in the capital itself, a course of study strictly Canadian in principle, which, taking into account foreign doctrines and methods, will bear consistently on the comprehension of our own problems."

Good And Bad Music

"A certain type of music comes to us under excitement," remarked Fritz Kreisler, violinist-composer, returning from Europe. "Jazz is the expression of primeval instincts. Don't think jazz is bad. There is good and bad music, and do you think all classical music is good? Who can tell? A gifted man like Gershwin, had he been born in some other environment, might have written great symphonies."—Literary Digest.

The University of Oxford, in England, is said to have been founded by King Alfred in 872.

Value Of Cheese

An Economical Food That Is High In Food Value

Much has been and still could be, written extolling the merits of cheese. The Milk Utilization Service, Dairy Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture summarizes the most important facts about cheese for the interest and benefit of everyone in Canada.

Cheese is a Canadian dairy product.

Cheese supplies the highest quality body building material (protein) for the growth and repair of tissues.

Cheese, like milk, ranks first among foods as a source of tooth and bone building material (calcium).

Cheese contains fat in a highly concentrated form for heat and energy.

Cheese is an abundant source of health-promoting vitamin A.

Cheese dishes are an excellent means of providing the protein in the meal.

Cheese is an economical food—high in food value—low in cost.

Cheese can be used to advantage as a substitute for more expensive protein foods.

Cheese adds flavour when used with bland foods such as rice, spaghetti and potatoes.

Cheese, a highly concentrated food, should be served with bulky foods such as cereals, fruits and green leafy vegetables.

Cheese is a highly nutritive food, not a condiment.

Not Always Helpful

Doctors Say Injuries Often Complicated By Unskilled Aid

The innocent bystander who attempts to aid a person injured in an automobile or other accident was warned by members of the American College of Surgeons the best thing he can do is to do nothing.

Unless an injured person is in imminent danger of further injury he or she is best left exactly in the position and on the spot where injured until a physician or surgeon arrives, since attempts to aid generally result in complicating the injury, the surgeons declared.

The advice emanated from a symposium on fractures held as part of the 26th annual clinical congress.

Dr. Robert H. Kennedy of New York City pointed out from 1,000,000 to 1,500,000 fractures occur annually in the United States and in a large number of cases "helpful" attempts of untrained persons vastly increased the injury.

Origin Of Old Term

Red Herrings Were Used To Furnish Artificial Trail In Hunting

In the U.S. election campaign, as oftentimes in our own political battles, we hear of "red herrings." Where did the term originate? The New York Times enlightens us: A red herring is a herring cured with saltpeter and slowly dried so as to be red. As early as the 17th century red herrings were dragged over ground to furnish an artificial trail for hunting dogs. They were also dragged across natural trails to divert dogs in a desired direction. Hence allusively or figuratively, the phrase came to indicate the diversion of attention from a real question.—Lethbridge Herald.

Had His Own Reason

H. G. Wells, who has just celebrated his 70th birthday, is well known to have his own ideas of Utopia. He is sometimes surprised to find other folk have theirs. At a dinner some years ago he discussed world-betterment with his neighbor, when the latter asserted, "I maintain that all water for drinking and culinary purposes should be boiled at least an hour before use." "Ah, then, you are a doctor, I presume," said Mr. Wells. "No, sir," was the reply, "I am a coal merchant."

Meat Survey

Per Capita Consumption Of Lamb In Canada Lower Than United Kingdom

With the object of obtaining more accurate information than is now available on the consumption of meats, particularly of lamb and veal, in Canada, a survey is now under way in the cities of Saint John, N.B., Montreal, and Vancouver, states the Economic Annalist issued by the Economics Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture. The Provincial Department of Agriculture in the provinces concerned are co-operating with the Economics Branch in these studies.

The consumption of lamb per head of population in Canada is considerably lower than that of the United Kingdom and other Empire countries, and with regard to all meats the consumption in Canada is lower than in Australia and New Zealand. The opinion prevails that there is considerable variation in different parts of Canada in the consumption of lamb, veal, beef, bacon, and other meats, and it is believed that the consumption of various meats differs in families of different national origins and with different family incomes. Few actual facts are available and basic economic facts on consumption are essential to the most intelligent production of the kinds of meat consumers require.

In the present surveys, householders will be interviewed by young college graduates, most of whom have had training in household science, and questionnaires relating to the use of lamb, veal, and other meats, as well as the consumption of fish and eggs, in the various homes will be obtained. Householders will be asked to state the quantity of different meats, fish, and eggs used per month, and their opinions as to the value of them. An opportunity to obtain information in the form of charts and bulletins of beef and lamb cuts and how to prepare them for consumption in the home will also be given to every householder interviewed.

A New Milk Container

Invention Of Swiss Is Now Under Test At Ottawa

Prospect of keeping milk and cream fresh in their natural state for months is offered by a container under test by department of agriculture officials at Ottawa. The container is the invention of Joseph Hofius, a Swiss.

A number of the containers, which had been sealed in Berne, Switzerland, six weeks before, were opened in the presence of several officials. Preliminary finding was that the cream and milk was fresh and sweet.

"But the League has failed, we are told. The League of Nations has not failed. What has failed is the nations of the League—and, those outside of it."

Main Reason For The Depletion Of Wild Fowl Is Reclaiming Of Marsh Land

Vagaries Of Wild Animals

Some Remarkable Changes Are Noted In Animal Kingdom

Startling changes are taking place in the animal kingdom. National park superintendents—ever on the lookout for unusual news in the wild life about them—have reported these discoveries of the U.S. government.

Mink have developed a taste for bacon; wild turkeys are losing their timidity; lions have reappeared in the Rockies; deer are acquiring a liking for creosote and the trumpeter swan has allowed his song to be recorded.

News about the lions comes from Rocky Mountain National Park, Colorado, where the animals were thought to be extinct. Tracks of a three-quarter grown beast were discovered and someone saw one.

At George Washington birthplace national monument, Virginia, a wild turkey has taken up with a flock of domestic birds.

Mink—which have always passed up bacon for eggs—have been spurning the latter at Glacier National Park, Montana. They raid the larders of rail crews and steal slabs of bacon.

A successful attempt to record the song of the trumpeter swan was made at Yellowstone National Park, Wyoming, by an expedition from the American Museum of Natural History.

Deer have always hated the smell of creosote, so when officials at Sequoia National Park, California, wanted to protect trees they hung up cloth balls saturated in the liquid. Recently the animals have devoured the trees and the balls.

Another piece of information was sent from the Great Smoky National Park in North Carolina and Tennessee. "The local name for the woodchuck," wrote the superintendent "is whistle-pig."

Comparatively Modern

Chairs Came Into Common Use In Seventeenth Century

We take chairs for granted, but they were not in common use until the last part of the seventeenth century. Hard wooden stools were the only seating conveniences used before that time.

In museums you may see some of the first chairs of history. They are stiff, uncomfortable objects of Puritan austerity. The backs are of solid wood, often in carved design, and the seats, too, are solid. They were known as "wainscott" chairs.

In three weeks fishermen of Gourack and Greenock, Scotland, caught $300,000 worth of herring.

Millicent and Irene Finley in Nature Magazine find what seems abundant reason for the disappearance of a part of our wild fowl and also for the abandonment of hundreds of farms that were never meant for farms. They say:

Years ago it was the plume and market hunters that we thought meant the end of the birds. This was like a mere visitation of the measles, soon cured. With the coming of the land promoter, a more insidious disease fell upon the feathered residents of the lake. It was a canker in Nature's balanced system, a schemer who persuaded U.S. state and county governments that vacant desert lands could be turned into prosperous farms, that ponds and marshes could be drained and would add agricultural wealth to the communities.

In this period, civic organizations, chambers of commerce and even the railroads fell in with the idea of inducing settlers from the Middle West and the East to go out and locate on remaining public lands throughout the dry sagebrush country and especially in the submarginal areas. Common sense would have told even a casual observer that these were not fit to support families.

So this promotion fever swept through the western country, eating away the feeding and nesting places of the migratory flocks. Water birds could not live without homes. This false land promotion was an epidemic.

The picture that followed this land promotion flurry was one of desolation; deserted shacks with a few starving cattle standing expectantly at the back door; deserted schoolhouses with owls roosting in the belfries; wind-blown sand sweeping across the bleak spaces—lonely, lonely. It was a pathetic ending of the efforts of misguided men to make homes.

The conditions described above pertaining to the United States are more or less equally applicable to many areas in Western Canada.

Dirigible Has Made Good

May Be Best Answer To Ocean Travel By Air

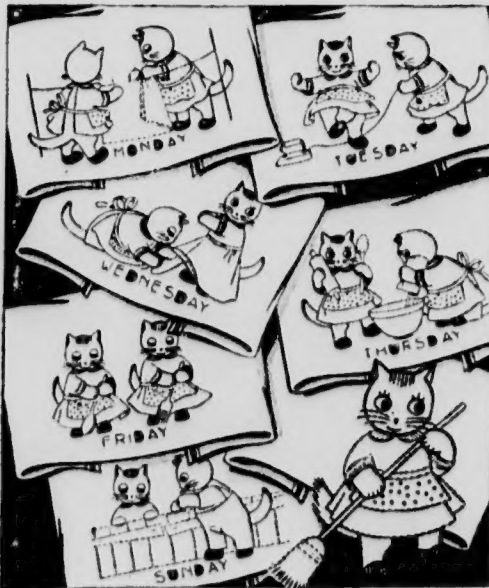

Just recently the Hindenburg docked at her home port of Frankfurt after her tenth and, for this season, her last round-trip passage of the Atlantic. No ocean liner could have exceeded the regularity of her comings and goings during which she has transported more than 1,200 passengers in both directions between this country and Germany. Her speed of flight cannot compare with that of the clipper ships, but there were no pauses to refuel en route, no postponements of take-off to avoid storms. She has ranged from Iceland to the Azores in making her way around disturbances that would have grounded any heavier-than-air rival, but without discomfort or serious delay to her human cargo. If her average speed was little better than that of a crack express train she more than made up for it in the elapsed time of her uninterrupted voyages.

It is far too soon, of course, to say that the dirigible is the better answer to ocean travel by air. But certainly it is not too soon to insist that we give the dirigible an even break of encouragement to develop her potentialities. Tragic experiences with home-built models should not blind us to the challenge in the record of the Hindenburg.—New York Herald Tribune.

Making Themselves Useful

Breeders of goats declare that the common belief about their favorite animals eating tin cans, red flannels, ploughshares and such, is without foundation in fact. Goats, we are told, are rather fastidious in their eating habit and demand the best in everything. A later report credits goats with eating and thus destroying large patches of poison ivy, and if this report is satisfactorily confirmed these lowly and formerly despised animals will be given an exalted place.—Farmers' Advocate.

The World of Wheat.

By H. G. L. STRANGE

Director "Crop Testing Plan."

China is the largest wheat producer in the world!

Of the 5,600 million bushels of wheat produced and consumed on the average each year in the world, Chinese production and consumption is about 950 million.

The U.S.S.R. (Russia) follows, a close second with almost the same amount, but it is expected that in a few years the wheat grown in the U.S.S.R. will exceed the Chinese production. The population of the U.S.S.R. is increasing at such a rate that it seems almost certain that the people there will require for their own consumption every bushel on the average that the U.S.S.R. can raise. (Russia tells us that she does not produce wheat for export in competition with Canada, and will only sell wheat abroad when she has a much larger crop than usual).

Third comes the United States with a production in normal years of about 800 million bushels. Fourth comes Canada with an average of 385 million. Next India with 340 million, then France with 290 million, Argentina with 235 million, Italy with 225 million, Spain 145 million, then a number of countries each of which produces quantities varying from 140 million down to 5 million.

Following worldwide factors have recently tended to raise prices:
Lack of moisture in U.S.A. southwest continues; France and Italy buying generously; Seeding in Europe delayed by rains; Searle report confirms lack of subsoil moisture in the Canadian West; South African wheat crop less than last year; Reports of drought in North China;
China harvests large cotton crop.

Following factors have tended to lower prices: Improvement in crop conditions in Argentina and Australia; Japan harvests 400 million bushels rice, which is 50 millions larger than last year; European buyers decrease purchases when price advances; Large shipments of corn and rye flowing to markets; Turkey sells large quantities of barley.

Westcott Notes.

The Westcott W.I. met at the home of Mrs. John Spillman, Garfield, on Thursday last. The following donations were decided upon: $15.00 to the Junior Red Cross; $7.00 to the Calgary Daily Herald Sunshine Fund; $5.00 to Wood's Home and $5.00 to the Salvation Army. Mrs. Roland Webster gave a talk on the "League of Nations," which was followed by a discussion on the merits of the latter. The hostess took charge of the social part of the meeting, which was very delightful. At the close of the meeting the hostess served lunch.

The Pie Social held at Westcott School on Wednesday last was a great success. The amount subscribed to the "Buy Prosperity Certificate Fund" was $60.00. This, along with the proceeds of the social amounted to around $77.00. This amount has been forwarded to Edmonton for Prosperity Certificates, which will be given to the subscribers in exchange for their money. We are indebted to Mr. Byrt of Elkton for bringing out a few articles from the Elkton Social Credit Group to help with the program. Others taking part in the programme were Joyce Levagood, Edna Johnstone (Carstairs), Clifford Murphy, Arnold Russell and Roland Webster. The meeting was presided over by L. P. Worthington, president of the group. —Contributed.

Evangelical Church Notes.

Rev. Caughell who has been away at Kenaston, Sask., as anniversary speaker at the Evangelical Church there, and also conducting a series of special meetings, will be home over Sunday, December 6th, and will be in charge at both the morning and evening services.

The Intermediate League and Mission Band held their regular meeting in the church parlors on Monday evening from 5 to 6 o'clock. The meeting was carried out largely like the first Mission Band which had its beginning in the Evangelical Church in the year 1885 through the interest shown by Blanche Stanford Becker at the age of 10. The same hymns were sung, the same scripture lesson chosen, which was given from memory by Verna Feeg, president. Marguerite Fisher gave the reading. "It takes a heap of praying in a church to make it go." The regular order of service was then carried out. The girls have completed their quilt which they sold at the Ladies Aid Bazaar last Saturday.

Didsbury No. 1

On Friday, November 27th the people of Didsbury and the surrounding district were treated to a very interesting and illuminating address of E. J. Poole, M.P.

Mr. Poole was a dinner guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Schwesinger.

After the public meeting, Mr. Poole, M.P., members of Social Credit Group No. 1 and other groups, assembled at the above mentioned home for a midnight lunch, when Mr. Poole gave the assembly very useful information, which was immensely enjoyed by everyone. Again and again the members voiced their allegiance to their chosen principles and manifested their firm stand behind our members and government.

The second annual meeting will be held at the home of the president, Mr. and Mrs. A. Schwesinger, on December 8th. Every member is requested to attend.

— Mrs. A. Schwesinger, Sec. Treas.

The Didsbury Pioneer S.C. Group held its annual meeting and election of officers on Monday evening, November 30th, 1936, at the home of E. N. Boettger.

The group has held 44 meetings since it organized on December 7th, 1935 and now has 58 members. The old executive officers were all re-elected to office for the next year: President, M. Weber; Vice, Herbert Sinclair; Secretary, Henry Erb and Treasurer Otto Klein. A board of eight directors was elected, and three committees, welcome, social-lunch, and entertainment. A librarian was also appointed.

Reports showed the group to be in a very active condition in every respect.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Weisenberg on Monday, December 7th at 8 p.m. Robert Reid of Cremona, who contested the West Calgary riding for Social Credit against Hon. R. B. Bennett in the last federal election, will be the guest speaker, if weather and roads permit. His topic will be, "Changes Caused by the Great War and to be Feared by the Next." All are welcome.

H Erb, Secretary.

Pool Completes Favourable Year

The annual report and financial statement of the Alberta Wheat Pool for its financial year ended July 13, 1936, shows that the organization made substantial progress in the twelve months. The province of Alberta as a whole is interested in the position of the Wheat Pool, as it holds some 5 million dollars of its bonds, arising out of its 1929 pool overpayment. The financial report indicates that $445,203 was paid to the government on principal and interest during the year. So far annual payments on principal and interest on this obligation have been made regularly and promptly.

It also appeared that the Pool showed net profits $309,513 from the year's operations, and the equity of the membership in the physical properties of the organization, after deducting the liability for the 1929 overpayment, is placed at over five million dollars. As the debt to the provincial government is cleared off, the equity of the members increases proportionately. The pool is operating 433 elevators and during the past year handled 27,109,040 bushels of grain.

Whose Savings Will be Next?

The money the people of this Province borrowed was used to provide them the houses, barns, and lands which now give them shelter and in which they do business. They have used them, and they continue to do so. Should they not recognize those who made it possible for them to have those things? Is it just that those who have saved, and who have been thrifty, to provide you with the facilities you possess should now be deprived of their savings?

Let those who look upon the lending companies as "big business" enquire whose money they have enjoyed. They will learn, as we shall tell them in one of the statements to follow.

If the citizens of Alberta pass by lightly the injustice of this Act, what is to prevent their own savings, their homes, their business, their farms and other possessions being taken away from them? Can they feel safe in the enjoyment of their savings? Keep in mind that the confiscation of the property of others is only the first step leading to the confiscation of yours.

You have been told that our Government does not intend to confiscate. The Reduction and Settlement of Debts Act would confiscate the savings of hundreds of thousands of people. Whose savings will be taken next?

This statement is one of a series written by The Mortgage Loans Association of the Province of Alberta. The Association is composed of 34 member companies. It represents hundreds of thousands of small investments by typical Canadians. Its loans to citizens of Alberta amount to some forty-five million dollars.

(The third statement in this series will be published in two weeks)

Preparing For Celebration

In 1938 Australia Will Mark 150th Anniversary Of Founding

In 1938 Australia will celebrate the 150th anniversary of the founding of what is proudly termed the only English-speaking continent in the world.

With an area of nearly 3,000,000 square miles, Australia is almost as large as the United States or Europe and is the only one of the five continents where English is the exclusive language.

The celebration will start early in 1938 and will last for three months, covering many of the most important dates in the foundation of the Australian Commonwealth. Captain Cook first planted the British flag on Australian soil in 1770, and explored the coastline, but he did not carry out any actual settlement. This began in 1778. On Jan. 18 of that year Captain Phillip with the Sirius, Supply and nine other vessels which formed Australia's "first fleet" arrived at Botany Bay, and a few days later moved to what Captain Cook had previously called Port Jackson.

On Feb. 7 following, this land was officially proclaimed a British colony, and the growth of Australia has continued during the intervening years.

It has been decided that New South Wales, as the "mother country" of modern Australia, will be in charge of the celebration, and the latter will be held at Sydney.

As seasons are reversed in Australia from those of the northern countries, the celebration will begin at the height of Australia's summer, thus providing a refuge for those who seek to escape the rigors of northern winter.

Books Sent For Distribution To Many Circulating Libraries

Books from Queen Mary's bookshelves were proudly displayed at Sydney, Australia, when the Bush Book Club of New South Wales held its annual "Collection Day."

These books were sent by Her Majesty to the Victoria League, London, and thence distributed to various centres overseas.

The object of the Bush Book club is to provide general reading for people in country districts who live out of reach of any library. During the past year the club circulated more than 14,000 books, in addition to large numbers of magazines.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

An Old Japanese Custom

Husbands Do Housework For One Day Every Year

Wives ruled homes in many parts of Japan for one day while their husbands did the housework.

The celebration is an annual ceremony during which Japanese men recognize formally the duties their wives must perform on all other days of the year.

At the town of Tamatsu, near Kobe, the entire populace gathered in the town hall, where husbands scrubbed floors, washed dishes and did the family wash. The wives enjoyed themselves eating and drinking.

An Exclusive Alice Brooks Design

PATTERN 5735

Here's liveness right at your finger-tips! A spread that's easy to crochet of string, and quite the most beautiful, ever! These decorative flat squares are done separately, the butterflies set off by a lacy K stitch, the flowers by plain flat mesh. Picture the beauty of refreshment cloths made from these, or a scarf or pillow. Smaller squares, that result from using finer cotton, make small but lovely gift articles. You can use the squares together or repeat just one design alone. In pattern 5735 you will find instructions and charts for making the squares shown; an illustration of them and of the stitches used; material requirements.

To obtain this pattern send 20 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to Household Arts Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermot Ave. E., Winnipeg.

Thou Shalt Not Love

— A NOVEL BY —
GEORGIA GRAIG

Her lips mocked; "You don't mean a home and babies?"

Michael said grimly: "That's exactly what I do mean! It should be the ideal of every man and woman. I know that it is mine! Fine sons—beautiful daughters—"

Michael, caught in a tide of emotion which he hardly understood himself, did not notice that Starr was shivering.

In imagination a parade passed before her eyes. Sturdy little men with clear gray eyes like Michael's; little girls with yellow hair like Stephanie's. A terrible pain twisted her heart. For a second she lost all consciousness of the daring role she had elected to play. The doomed Starr Ellison saw the ghost of her forbidden happiness.

In imagination, too, she was transported back to that musty, three-thousand-year-old tomb with its damp, bright-painted walls, and the voice of John Lessing was droning the curse of Tut-Amen-Ra.

"Thou—and thy children—and thy children's children—"

With a tremendous effort of will she shook herself free of her morbid memories. She could not afford to remember. There was no Starr Ellison who was cursed—doomed. It was the soulless "Play-Girl" who laughed into Michael's face.

"Hassan—how quaint! You do belong in an Arabian Night's tale, don't you! Girls don't have babies these days, do they?"

"I guess your kind don't!"

A spell was snapped. The battle was on again. Drawn daggers flashed. Michael said scathingly: "I'm a fool—a double-dyed fool! I was trying to talk to you in a language you don't understand! I should take you for what you are, just like every other man who accepts your careless favors! Perhaps, after all, I was right in the first place, and that is the language you understand better—it certainly must be more familiar to you!"

He pulled his car up to the curb before her apartment house so suddenly that Starr was almost jolted out of her seat. Insensibly she swayed a little toward him. His hand went out to aid her—and instead he caught her into an embrace so savage that it hurt her. His arms held her crushingly while his kisses rained on her ice-cold face, wiped the mockery from her scarlet mouth. They were the rough, hard, ruthless kisses of a man who wanted to hurt the one he holds in his arms, but even so, in the depths of her subconsciousness Starr was afloat in a warm sea of unknown, strange delight. Kisses—Michael's kisses—which bruised heart as well as lips.

Breathless, she pulled away, staring at him in fright from the deep pools of her dark eyes. She did not speak. Nor did Michael.

With a swift gesture Starr opened the door and slipped from the car. Instantly Michael's foot was on the starter, the car roared at his touch on the accelerator, and he rounded the corner and was out of sight before Starr could catch her breath. As she stepped into the elevator and felt it shoot skyward, she felt that all her courage, too, was synthetic as herself. It was oozing away in an ebb of terror. How was she ever going to stand the bitterness of it? Six months now seemed an eternity.

CHAPTER IX.

Starr came from her rose-hued, lotus-scented bath. Her skin was flushed from her brisk toweling, but she felt cold inside. Cold with the remembrance of Michael's kisses.

Other men had kissed "Play-Girl." That was to be expected. How could she help it, with her reputation? That was all part of the stage props. Lance had kissed her, Tod Ranger—others. But none of them had ever inspired her with the intense feeling that Michael's kisses did. The deep thrill that had shaken her body, making her blood race along like fire, was something she had never imagined.

She sat down before her triple mirrors over her lace-draped dressing table, drawing a filmy negligee about herself. She had allowed herself barely enough time to dress for Tod's party. She always did that. The only life possible for her was continual rushing from one party to another, from one thrill to another, from one man to another! Michael had made that possible in making her "Play-Girl" and ever since her first appearance as the author of the notorious book there had been no lack of invitations. Society, the madly-rushing, heedless, decadent younger set, had opened arms to her. She went everywhere; life was a whirl. Which was what she wanted it to be.

She was afraid to be alone, afraid of the solitude of her own thoughts.

So she sought forgetfulness, crowding into her days and nights a world of synthetic emotions, in a feverish attempt to recompense her real self, not the synthetic one she had become, for the one genuine emotion which must be denied. Love!

In the set to which Michael and the Tarrance Publishing Company had introduced her they played; they danced; they kissed; they made violent love which was not love at all. They did not truly love—any of them. And though she was capable of it, she must not.

She pressed her fingers against her throbbing temples, the deadly weariness that she always felt in these quiet, frightening moments dragging at her limbs again. How long could she keep it up? Michael had sensed and spoken more truly than he knew. Lance was becoming more and more difficult to handle. He wanted more than kisses. And now there was Michael. . . . Michael? She dared not think of Michael.

"Thou Shalt Not Love," was to Starr as real a command as though it blazed before her eyes in words of fire.

Her comfortably proportioned colored serving woman's voice disturbed her thoughts.

"What-all's the matter, Miss Starr?" the woman wanted to know. "Is somebody done hurt your feelin's? You look so all kind o' tuckered out and like you didn't care for nothin'?"

Starr lifted her head to smile at the woman. She was grateful for her companionship, certain here of a loyalty she found nowhere else. Her maid's concern was real. Michael, of course, had thought Starr should have an Arab woman, to be in keeping with the rest of her lay-out, but they had compromised on a negress who looked like a blackamoor. She was from North Carolina and her name was Sapphira, enough like the Arabic Safiyyeh, if it came to that, to suit anybody. She cared not at all about being a synthetic Arab, but she did care—and boasted of it continuously in Harlem—about the collection of silver bangles and bright-hued headress she was allowed to wear, instead of the usual uniform other colored maids had to assume. She did not care so much for the mushrabiyyeh windows. They made it a bit hard to see what was going on in the world, and Miss Starr was always gadding off some place.

Starr told Sapphira: "No, nobody's hurt my feelings. I've just got a good case of the heebie-jeebies, I guess, Sapphira. Life seems to be a useless sort of thing."

The colored woman shook her head. "What I specs, Miss Starr, is that you-all are burnin' your candle both ends too much. What you need is to fall plumb in love with jes' one o' these men that's runnin' after you so much, an' git married. . . . That's what. . . ."

WEDDINGS

A quiet wedding was solemnized
at the Baptist Parsonage, Calgary, on Thursday, November 19th, when Miss Ruby Kercher was united in marriage with Mr. Frank Good, of Calgary.

Miss Adelaide Hutchinson, Three
Hills, and Lyle Lawrence McNeil, Sundre, were united in marriage at the United Church Manse on Sunday, November 29th, Rev. J. R.
Geeson officiating. They were accompanied by the bride's parents,
Mr. and Mrs. Alex Hutchinson, of Three Hills.

BIRTHS

November 22nd, to Mr. and Mrs.
Ira Stauffer a son, Clarence Arthur.

What a Pity!

By L.W.

There once was a billy (his name
I forget).

A funny old chap I recall;
On account of a weakness to worry and fret.

Who wouldn't be happy at all

Each day without fail this bird could be found,

Even tho' all conditions were fine,
In quest of old trouble—just snoot-
ing around

And fixing his face for a whine.

He'd worry for fear of the sun
coming out

To burn up the pasture and grain;
Then, "What's that damned weather man thinking about!"

—The minute it started to rain.

He'd grumble and slander the day
he was born,

While reaping a poor-paying crop.
When prices were good for his wheat and his corn—

He'd a hunch they were in for a drop.

The air, 'twas a fact, would some day give out;

We'd perish for lack of its breath;
Till at last for a topic to worry about—

He just naturally worried to death.

So they put him down deep in a far lonely plot.

With a fifty-buck stone on his head.

And its stinging inscription they quickly forgot.

"He worried"—was all that it said

Fact No. 6: The Foreign Mission
staff of our Church, men and women, not including the W.M.S., totals
273. This number does not include native workers, and represents a reduction of 32 per cent compared with the year 1927 when there were 399 on the staff. As far as possible the whole work has been maintained by increasing the responsibilities of the individual missionaries. But it is inevitable that the work is retarded by such a drastic reduction. The Missionary and Maintenance Fund needs our wholehearted support.
